Al Holubar, Frances Nelson and Hobart Henley—featured in a Startling and Brilliant Military Drama

COURT MARTIALED

IMP 4 REELS

TELLS in a series of striking episodes the story of a young French officer and his career of deception and wrongdoing. Stopping at nothing in his desperation, he even robs his father and wrongs his best friend. Finally, through his mother's pleadings, he confesses and pays the penalty to which another man had been condemned to in his stead.

The Moonstone

In "The Moonstone" Wilkie Collins wrote a thoroughly mysterious mystery story, part Oriental and part Western in its atmosphere.

The plot is so complicated, so filled with unexpected twists and misplaced suspicions—after the moonstone has been stolen—that it demanded particularly careful development at the hands of the director.

ELAINE HAMMERSTEIN is a charmingly natural girl as Rachel Verinder, into whose possession the stolen moonstone passes, a gift from her fiancé, Blake.

The solution of the theft is reserved until the last reel, when everything is explained in a way that surprises everyone.

TOMORROW—Gertrude Robinson in the PARAMOUNT Feature "MAY BLOSSOMS."
